

DR. HUNTINGTON ON PLUTOCRATS.

An Address at the Commencement Exercises of Hobart College.

With annual commencement of Hobart College to-day the Rev. William Reed Huntington, D. D., D. C., L., Honorary Chancellor of the college and rector of Grace Church, New York, delivered an address. It was entitled, "The American College a Breakwater Against Plunder." He said in part:

"The amazing increase in the wealth of the United States which these times are witnessing is not only an invitation to the foreigner, but also a source of worry to the native. Who shall have as prize the plutocrats? Is it a question which many Americans who love not a tyrant and who disclaim any slightest sympathy with communism are to-day anxiously putting to themselves and to each other."

endeavor for the well-being of the republic, they are laboring to find out what it will mean to have the country become, as in the past of fact it is rapidly becoming, the wealthiest of all lands. I conceive that, for a generation past, the people of this country have been swiftly passing century, no time could be more significant or better timed. Is any terrible calamity awaiting us because of the increase of our goods, and if such peril really threatens, how may it most surely be averted? The former of the two questions the only answer possible is: That depends. That a nation on general principles is even more likely to die of

It is a mistake, and a harmful one, to insist that the millionaires are doing no good with their money except where they are giving it away. The great business leaders have not been devoted to the purpose of keeping the wheels of industry in motion. And no better method of keeping those wheels in motion is known than in the proper education of the are known wherever on the earth American manufacturers, American travellers, American citizens have penetrated. And great those achievements are, they could not have been achieved without the weak men, the pluckless, our Johns Hopkins, Girard, Rockefeller, Carnegie and Armour. The colleges of America are to-day giving men to the world who are trained for their cradles in the principles of good citizenship. They receive the same training as the men who rule the earth, and when they face the greater problems of life they are well fitted to cope with apparently insurmountable obstacles. However much may be said of the struggle between the rich and the poor, the real struggle the victory will not be with the latter.

Dr. Huntington's address is 1001 University of Chicago literature as conferred by the college upon Dr. Huntington to-day.

BEAT HIS LITTLE DAUGHTER.

After Held or Trial on Charge of Extreme Cruelty

Nathan Mandelberger, a clothing operator, of 75 Second street, was arraigned in the Essex market police court yesterday charged with brutally beating his nine-year-old daughter Essie. Mandelberger and his wife, who now reside at 113 Bridge street, separated two years ago, and the girl is now in a Home for the neglected child, but about four weeks ago took the child to her home.

Two weeks ago the girl disappeared. It was learned later that the father met her in the street and induced her to go to live with him. She was taken to her father's home, where, after her mother's arrest, scarcely able to walk and with her face and body covered with bruises, she died from the beating. The father was taken into custody with a strap to which was attached a steel buckle.

The chief of police informed the Gerry social and Acent Wellington arrested Mandelberger yesterday. In the police court yesterday the girl repeated her story, and her sorrow was displayed to Magistrate Beuel. Mandelberger, who is a native of Hungary, had declared that he only did it to correct her. Magistrate Beuel held him in $300 bail for trial.

ALGER AND WHEELER.

Parting Greeting to Them by Michigan Civil

Flint, Mich., June 21.—The Grand Army men meeting in State encampment here and the citizens of the town generally united to-day in paying tribute to two veterans who fought on opposite sides in the war of '61. Gen. Alger was the special favorite, but the reception given to him by the Grand Army veterans was repeated when Gen. Joe Wheeler was introduced to speak. The veterans gave him three times three cheers, and were so enthusiastic in it that the old General was almost overcome and could hardly speak.

ers that he had met nearly forty years ago, and said that the sons of these sires proved themselves as brave while with him in front of the danger.

There is talk among the leading members of the G. A. R. to-night of taking some official notice of the interesting Alger's conduct as Secretary of War and start along his boom for United States Senator. A big campfire is in progress to-night, at which Gen. Alger, Buford and Wheeler will speak.

100,000 FIRE IN LIVERMORE FALLS.

Twenty-five Buildings in the Maine Village

IVERMORE FALLS, Me., June 21.—This village had a fire to-night which caused a total of about $100,000. The fire started in an barn near the Main street crossing of the line Central road, and is believed to have been set by a tramp.

The flames spread to neighboring property swept along the western side of the chief rough fire, a distance of 1,000 feet, destroyed about twenty-five stores and dwellings, and burned all the buildings except two. The fire was under control at midnight. This second extensive fire the town has had

NEGRO PHYSICIAN IN TROUBLE.
Miss Mays Accuses Dr. Lambert M. Clark of Swindling Her.

Dr. Lambert M. Clark, a negro physician of Manhattan, is in Raymond Street Jail, in Brooklyn, under the alias of John W. Brown, on charge of grand larceny. Miss Mays, a colored seamstress, is the complainant. She says that she gave $100 to Dr. Clark to collect a $10,000 prize which she had won in a lottery, and that Clark says that the lottery prize is a check, and that Miss Mays gave him the money to pay for professional services. City Administrator Brenden said the doctor to await action of the Grand Jury.

The weather was unusually clear yesterday over the country. The pressure was low between Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains, but there no storm brewing elsewhere, except on the Atlantic and New England coasts, it was normal. The temperature was six to twenty degrees lower from the great lakes east to the Atlantic coast and in the extreme Northwest. It was

	Official, 2007	Official, 2004	Seneca
	1890, 1893, 1900	1890, 1893, 1900	1890
Max	72.8	72.8	72.8
Min	17.8	17.8	17.8
P.P.M.	70	70	70
Seneca	70	70	70

WINDS—60°-94°-12-Mph; 65°-57°-68°
 WIND DIRECTION—Easterly
 Yr. Forecast—fair and sunny in New York, fair to fair over Ontario, fresh to brisk northwest winds,
 the District of Columbia eastern Pennsylvania;
 New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, fair, fair weather Friday; light northerly winds, becoming variable.
 western Pennsylvania, western New York and full and warmer, fair and continued high temperature Friday; variable winds, becoming easterly.

Helping the sick to health through the periodic medication of a palatable water in the form of

Somatose Biscuit

Gives strength to the weak—keeps the strong strong. An unequalled nourishing food for invalids, nursing mothers and children.

For Sale by All Dealers.

Helping the sick to health through the periodic medication of a palatable water in the form of

Somatose Biscuit

Gives strength to the weak—keeps the strong strong. An unequalled nourishing food for invalids, nursing mothers and children.

For Sale by All Dealers.